LINDA BRESTCIA
Don’t Worry I’m an Artist
Roving performance
As an artist, performance allows me to challenge the border between everyday life and art. One of our most basic instincts is the need for human interaction and by covering myself up I immediately become visible. Don’t Worry I’m an Artist eases audience trepidation by alleviating fear of the unknown. Ultimately this work can begin a conversation about art and what it is.
Performance: From 10am every day

ALL CEMENTA VENUES ARE OPEN FOR SELF-GUIDED EXPLORATION 10AM–4PM EVERY DAY OF THE FESTIVAL. LOOK OUT FOR THE RED AND ORANGE FLAGS.
9 ANGUS AVENUE GARDEN

ANNE GRAHAM
House of Shade and Shadows
Steel, shade cloth, plants
The idea of shade has pleasant, cooling associations, whereas when evening falls, mysterious shadows conceal what was formerly visible and make the ordinary strange. The House of Shade and Shadows is covered in semi-transparent black netting, plants hang from a delicate metal framework, small metal tables are crowded with ferns, succulents and seedlings, a central corridor hosts three bubbling fountains. In the daytime visitors may make their own small no-dig garden; refreshments will be served. Anne Graham is assisted by Tony Bond and Jan Bond. Music by Boris Hunt.

Refreshments served 10am–4pm every day except Thursday

GILBERT GRACE (WITH KANDOS SCHOOL OF CULTURAL ADAPTATION AND STUART ANDREWS OF MARLoo, MOUNT MARSDEN, NSW)
The Hemp Initiative (KSCA)
Land+Art residency and outcomes
Realising Ian Milliss’s Kandos School of Cultural Adaptation from Cementa17 became my idée fixe and project for Cementa17. Long before 2017, KSCA took on a life of its own, including a Land+Art residency. I am working alongside Ian Milliss, Laura Fisher and the other members of KSCA to achieve some, if not all, of Ian’s ambitions for Kandos (the ersatz Lithgow that provided the research impetus). We are navigating bureaucratic hurdles to obtain a licence for Stuart Andrews to grow a crop of low-THC industrial hemp at Marloo. From a list of prospective outcomes we have completed a hempcrete ceremonial gate on Angus Avenue, a first-edition bamboo and hemp bicycle frame (more to come) ... and Futurelands2. The project will contribute to the body of knowledge required for a hemp industry to flourish in Australia as Sir Joseph Banks, The British Royal Society and the British Admiralty intended.

Artist’s talk: midday every day except Saturday
Tour of Marloo: Bus departs Kandos 9am Saturday 8 April. No cars. See page 39.

TERRY BURROWS
HOME
Photography and installation
Artists have been encouraged to make work that relates to the town of Kandos through broader global themes. Utilising the stealth of playful engagement, Terry Burrows’s installation HOME highlights the very serious plight of refugees as his inflatable kayak is obsessively photographed around various locations in his studio home: working in the studio, dozing off in the bedroom, relaxing in front of the TV, etc. Burrows, a ‘refugee’ from the city, has recently taken up residence in Kandos, and with an oblique, tender humour, his home is literally embracing the ‘inflatable craft’, and its implied human cargo. The venue for the work of course is also his home.

CUTS COLOURS N CURLS HAIR SALON

THOM ROBERTS
Positive and Negative of Thom Roberts’s Workshop
Performance art and installation using various paper and posca pens
As an artist with a long-term love affair with the crowns of people’s heads, Thom Roberts will express his fascination for crowns through a combination of performance art and installation at Kandos’s own Cuts Colours N Curls hairdressing salon. For those out of the loop, your crown is located on the top of your head, it is often spiral shaped and is a central point from which hair grows. For Roberts, crowns are a magical landscape in which he identifies an array of creatures. Cementa17 guests are invited to offer their crowns for Roberts to read and interpret.

This project is supported by Studio A, and by the Accessible Arts’ Delineate grant as a part of the Don’t DIS my ABILITY program. Performance: 11am–12midday and 3–4pm every day
KANDOS PROJECTS

ANNEMAREE DALZIEL WITH ROCHELLE SUTHERLAND AND LOCAL PEOPLE; SPECIAL THANKS TO GEORGE MCDONALD, SHIRLEY TUNNICLIFF AND RYLSTONE AND DISTRICT HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Whispers in the grass
Installation: poa labillardieri (native tussock grass); cardboard; themeda triandra (kangaroo grass) engraved velvet; 19th century children’s clothes made from recycled textiles and native tussock grass; found objects; photograph of Pinnacle Swamp School (1890s) courtesy Shirley Tunnicliffe; lace by Rochelle Sutherland

Whispers in the grass uses native grasses and dance to explore a double diaspora. Many thousands of Highland Scots left Scotland for British colonies, displaced by British laws and practices that had shattered their Gaelic culture. They entered a new Australian society that displaced the original peoples and changed the ecologies of their country profoundly. Some came to the Capertee Valley. What became of their language, their grief, their habits? Do grief and trauma mark our DNA and transmit silently across generations, reawaken with singing of the susurrant grass? Grief whispers in the grass and we dance a joyful unforgetting ...

TONY ALBERT
Untitled (Service Trays)
Found vintage service trays
Tony Albert’s art practice interrogates contemporary legacies of colonialism in a way that prompts the audience to contemplate elemental aspects of the human condition. Mining imagery and source material from across the globe and drawing upon personal and collective histories, Albert questions how we understand, imagine and construct difference. Certain political themes and visual motifs resurface across his oeuvre, including thematic representations of the ‘outsider’ and Aboriginalia (a term the artist coined to describe kitschy objects and images that feature naïve portrayals of Aboriginality).

Weather is everywhere at all times. It is pre-human and will persist long after humans have perished. The terrible obviousness of these sentiments nonetheless provokes other considerations. We think of weather like we think of maps. When we look at a map we apprehend it as a manifestation of an objective ‘thing’ called geography. We never think ‘right here where these lines intersect, people are dying’. Or being displaced. We consider a map for its perfect graphic legibility. We have no means of seriously shaping geography just as we have no immediate means of controlling weather. Still weather carries warnings. These are subjective and emotional as well as concretely observable. No matter where we are, whatever the weather is or becomes, it will get to us.

Free PINs
Calligraphy, paint, cardboard, performance
Free PINs challenges conceptions of contemporary identity and the non-poetry of corporate aesthetics. Counter to the privacy conventions of furtive, internalised Personal Identification Numbers, Free PINs offers handmade calligraphy PINS - brushed digits from a random number generator. This is art of disclosure - a PIN created for display in celebration of where and who we are.

When are the Bush Marys coming?
Photography, cloth, silk satin, string, flowers
“When are the Bush Marys coming?” was a phrase coined by the colonisers and outback stationeers of western New South Wales. The station men, while waiting for the Aboriginal women, domestic servants to arrive, used this expression. In my photographic ‘self portraits’, installation and performance, I will honour the Holy Mother Mary, the Bush Mary and the divine fertility creation spirit, Mother Earth.

The Bush Marys would cook, clean and mind the children, while hidden in the landscape of outback Australia. By way of my Italian/Barkindji heritage, I have re-created my own ‘Holy Trinity’.

Speed Firing
Recycled ceramics, found steel, found and bought glass, raw clay, processed clay, volcanic siltstone and limestone
My work explores the process of Hyper-Firing. The technique was formed by found ceramic material interacting with known processed ceramic material, pushing the envelope of chaotic interaction. I’ve been an evangelist for ‘process over product’, avoiding ceramic trends of function and mass production. The raw, found and bought materials from Kandos have led to the development of my Hyper-Firing Theory, that promises optimal speed firing using only solar power. Recycled ceramics, found steel, found and bought glass, raw clay, processed clay, volcanic siltstone, limestone and a new form of internal kiln engineering to create objects driven by the experimentation of Hyper-Firing process.

AN OSCA PROJECT BY PAUL GAZZOLA
Town Crossings – Kandos
Participatory art project
Town Crossings – Kandos is an experimental mapping project that invites people to take a frisbee and make a journey around the town. Each player is then invited to record their haphazard pathways, incidental conversations and playful exchanges, as part of a large-scale map. The collected stories will form part of a series of broadcasts on local radio.

10am-4pm every day
5pm each evening: broadcasts on local radio KRR98.7FM
5.30pm–dusk Sunday 9 April: The Great Frisbee Off

SUPER CRITICAL MASS (JULIAN DAY, LUKE JAANISTE AND REGIONAL PARTICIPANTS)
That Thing Between Us
Delegated performance
That Thing Between Us is a spatialised work for community voices, featuring a body of regional participants that has accumulated since 2015. Super Critical Mass (SCM) brings together temporary communities to create ambient sound states in publicly accessible places. Each ‘orchestra’ is made up of one type of sound source, whether musical or everyday: 30 ceramic bowls, 50 voices, 100 brass instruments. That Thing Between Us is a study into interdependence. As is typical for SCM the work is planned but unscored and emerges from internalised instructions. As the human voice is organic, each singer must rely on one other to establish and maintain pitch. This creates a dynamic feedback situation reminiscent of early social works by Pauline Oliveros or Cornelius Cardew, a rich and ever-changing sound portrait of a society in action.

JOHN A DOUGLAS
Screen Test (revived) – The Devils Tower
Mixed media durational performance installation with single channel 4K to HD video
The Bylong Valley has many sedimentary sandstone landforms. One in particular evokes a popular sci-fi Hollywood location: The Devil’s Tower in Wyoming. In the midst of a giant shed of old furniture there lies a recreation of a scene from that film. This durational performance installation is a re-enactment of the character and a scene from the film (played by Richard Dreyfuss) where he obsessively attempts to build a model of the imaginary mountain in his living room. You are invited to join in and participate in his obsession if you dare.
This work is supported by the Australian Artists’ Grant. The Australian Artists’ Grant is a NAVA initiative, made possible through the generous sponsorship of Mrs Janet Holmes à Court and the support of the Visual Arts Board, Australia Council for the Arts.

I'm made up of so many cultural influences being Aboriginal, white Australian, Irish, Maori etc. - yet none of them alone can define who I am.

When are the Bush Marys coming?
Performance including kangaroo skin, coolamon (a traditional Aboriginal carving from a tree trunk used for carrying babies, hunting tools, bush foods etc.), antique doll, lace blanket
It is my intention, in this live performance, to no longer obfuscate the truth of the Bush Mary servant.
She is the non-virgin, used for the carnal
She has no voice
She is her body
She comes out of the bush
Out of the dark
Into the light
She returns back to the bush
Into the darkness
She is the 'Holy Ghost'.
This work is in loving memory of my Barkindji 'nanna' Kath Mary McCarthy, also in honour of my mother Elina Erina McCarthy.
Performance: 11am and 3pm every day

MIRIAM WILLIAMSON AND BRAD ALLEN-WATERS
Bag Hut
Ply, acrylic, solar prints, lime, lard, corrugated iron, gum branches, fabric, AV component
Bag Hut explores shifts in memory, time and place. While memory fogs individual perception, the landscape embraces all. The family tree, burdened by its own weight, drops a branch here and there. The work references the temporary depression-era hut built by my grandfather in Kandos in 1923. He moved across from Hill End, seeking work in the local mines and eventually the cement works. Bag Hut is a site-specific installation sourcing local materials similar to those my grandfather used. The site shares the same aspect as the original structure, looking out to Cherry Tree Hill with Mount Rocky behind.

CLAIRE CONROY
The City of Ladies
Camera obscura caravan and installation
A camera obscura caravan is situated within an allegorical city in a paddock in Kandos. It is broadly based on The Book of the City of Ladies, a 15th-century feminist text by Christine de Pizan. The City of Ladies can be moved through, inhabited as well as viewed upside down and in reverse from inside the camera obscura.

MARK SHORTER AND SACH CATTS
Chop Dig Chanty
Performance
Chop Dig Chanty is a performance work that seeks to compose a chanty (work song) through the labour of chopping and digging. Over the course of three days Catts and Shorter will fell and chop up a tree, and dig a hole respectively. As the axe chips the wood and the shovel carves the soil, rhythms between the two actions will be found and employed to divide and organise the timber and to propel the excavation downward.
Performance throughout the day
PAUL GREEDY

Untitled (wire no.5)

Piano wire, magnets, wood, metal, audio amplifier, audio signal

This project is the latest in a series of long-wire experiments that explore the dynamics of sound propagation through material and space. The large steel ‘ball mill’ located in the grounds of Kandos Museum will be converted into an electro-acoustic instrument – as the resonant cavity formed by this large metal structure is sonically activated by a vibrating wire tensioned across its internal length.

JOHN CONOMOS

Paging Mr Hitchcock

Video (colour, sound, 12 minutes)

Paging Mr Hitchcock is my video performance homage work dedicated to Hitchcock’s enduring cinema of suspense. I am seen addressing the filmmaker while holding a mask of his face. The first part is an assemblage of Hitchcock’s famous cameo appearances in his own films. The second part is my own performance in a long-take sequence. The video was shot in a studio with a red epic camera.

NICOLE WELCH

Wildēornes Body

Time-lapse film, edition of six

Wildēornes (Old English): a land inhabited only by wild animals. Wildēornes Body reflects the inherent loss and uncertainty we now face for the natural environment, while simultaneously being a personal acknowledgement of the artist embracing her mortality and the wolf (lupus) that inhabits her body and world. Swathed in a Victorian 1880s chantilly lace mourning shawl, the artist lay on a large mirror that reflects the sky and the canopy of trees above. Through the symbolism of the mourning shawl and the endurance of holding a pose over time, Welch aims to reveal the symbiotic relationship humans have with the natural world, and the fragility and strength of both. Welch spent several weeks at BigCi artist residency near Wollemi National Park where she researched and created this work.

Portraits of Elders

Series of photographic portraits

Portraits of Elders presents eight portraits of Kandos elders. The people figured in these photographs have either lived their entire lives in the Kandos-Rylstone area or have important long-standing relationships to the area. These elders have witnessed the growth and transformation of the town. They are descendants of the local Dabee tribe, immigrants who moved here after World War II, and local characters everyone in town will recognise. These portraits are records and a paying of respect to the elders of the Kandos-Rylstone area and to the important part they have played in its history.

SKYE SAXON
The Snowflake Shaman’s Winter Wonderland
installation and performance artwork

Kandos’s wild woodland proved fertile inspiration for Saxon’s active dream life. Upon discovering Kandos’s mysterious woodland tucked behind the local scout hall Saxon was entranced. A winterland tepee revealed itself to the artist, providing a map for her Cementa17 work. In The Snowflake Shaman’s Winter Wonderland Saxon will perform as a Snowflake Shaman offering guests the opportunity to transform their stress into snow within her winterland tepee structure. Step inside, soften, melt and surrender to the transformation.

This project is supported by Studio A, and by the Accessible Arts’ Delineate grant as a part of the Don’t DIS my ABILITY program.

Whispers in the grass
Performance: OzScot dancers and local people dance a new performance. Choreography by Cheryl Roach OAM along a grass topography
Whispers in the grass is a performance inspired by the story of local farmer George McDonald, a truly gentle man. His great-grandparents were forced to emigrate from Skye in 1852 to make way for more profitable sheep. They arrived in the Capertee Valley in 1856 and many of their children were born in remote places. Could they have been shepherds? Today George is rejuvenating the land his grandfather bought in 1899 by sustainable farming, returning indigenous grasses to pastures. Forgotten stories whisper in the grass and we dance a joyful unforgetting ...

Future Acts

Workshop, tour and discussion

Future Acts examines the spatial politics of the travelling stock reserves (TSRs). They contain practical, environmental and cultural resources that are depended upon today as they have been for millennia. We are only now beginning to understand the origins of the TSRS and their relationship to Indigenous trade routes, aboriginal sites of occupation and their significance to biodiversity.

We invite you to listen firsthand to the spatial-politics of this land from a local Indigenous perspective with Wiradjuri elders Kevin Williams and Lyn Syme over a campfire damper breakfast. Kevin will give us a tour of TSRR55 showing us how to read the landscape for evidence of aboriginal occupation. Lyn will talk about negotiating Native Title and the spatial-politics of land. Lawyer Maeve Parker will introduce us to Native Title, Aboriginal Land Rights, Future Acts and how they play out in this context.

This work is part of an ongoing research project commissioned by the New Landscapes Institute, and culminating in an exhibition at Wagga Wagga Gallery opening 5 May 2017.

Wolbachipolis

Plastic trash bag, organic materials, copper plaque, pizza party and discussion

A fictitious monument, erected in 2511, to two important moments from the history of evolution and genetic modification: the moment Charles Darwin had a platypus shot so that he could study the animal, and the release of mosquitoes carrying Wolbachia bacteria, in hopes of eradication of dengue fever.

This work was inspired in part by a plaque found on a rock in Manhattan’s Inwood Park, marking the place where the Lenape sold the island to the Dutch, and how the significance of a historical event changes over time.

This project was made possible by the generous support of NAVA through the NSW Artists’ Grant.

Acrylic spraypaint on natural canvas

Painted natural canvas loosely wrapped around a tree trunk. The pattern on the fabric is based on my own Native North American heritage, and is a stand-in for language; it is a black repeating motif against a natural, unbleached cloth. The idea is to indicate how language embodies a specific worldview, and how it can shape our concept of environment.

Segmented or Whole

Found clay and twine

Segmented or Whole bridges together different parts of the Birds Hut structure using rope and circular clay forms. Local clay is hand-shaped around twine to create a self-regulated formal measurement time and record. Gravity plays a significant role determining how each piece is hung based on the distribution of the clay’s weight among the contorted flaccid rope portions. The single congruent rope line eliminates the fragmentation of individual moments.

Made in BKLYN for the BUSH

Acrylic on canvas

Made in BKLYN for the BUSH is a large colourful intuitive painting on unstretched canvas with cut-out shapes which allow the forest floor of the outdoor site to peek through and become part of the work. From imagination in her Brooklyn studio, Staiger painted colour to sync with the energy of the ecosystem of this place she has never been to. She is excited to think about wildlife sniffling the work at night and, during the day, humans looking at her work submerged in nature.

A Ride in the Sky

Video and mixed media installation

A Ride in the Sky conflates Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers dance sequences, which invoke nostalgia for the past, with an idiosyncratic 1970s song entitled Jet by Paul McCartney and Wings, which underscores both the allure and the folly of romanticising the myth of the American Dream. This mash-up is part of a physical set or ‘stage’. It invites viewers to negotiate the line between literal and pictorial space, and to actively participate in the constructed reality of the work.

Birds Hut is open 10am to 4pm every day of the festival. Bus from Kandos will visit Birds Hut on Saturday 8 April: departs 1.30pm from Buchanan Street, behind Kandos Community Centre Hall. STUART ANDREWS AND THE KANDOS SCHOOL OF CULTURAL ADAPTATION

Tour of Marloo

A rare privilege: visit Marloo, the property of farmer and educator Stuart Andrews of Tarwyn Park Training. Andrews will demonstrate how he is rehabilitating severely degraded areas of Marloo to a fertile and water-retaining state by employing the principles of Natural Sequence Farming. This is a chance to hear firsthand from an innovative farmer what it means to practice sustainable, economically viable land management.

It’s a 10-min walk from the Marloo bus drop-off to the demonstration site. Wear sturdy footwear and bring hats and water.

Saturday 8 April. No cars. Bus departs 9am from Buchanan Street, behind Kandos Community Centre Hall. Book online at cementa.com.au or at C17 info booth. 60-seat limit. Cost: $20 waged, $10 unwaged, $10 local. Children free.

Bus returns to Kandos approx. 11.45am.

PYT | Fairfield presents Pagoda Parkour, a collaboration between Karen Therese, Victoria Hunt and the Dauntless Movement Crew, a Fairford parkour, b-boy and tricking team. They will create a new work amongst the unique pagoda formations at Ganguddy (Duns Swamp, Wollemi National Park) near Kandos.

This project was made possible by the generous support of Festivals Australia.

2.30pm Saturday 8 April

Take the bus or drive to Ganguddy; limited parking. Bus departs from Buchanan Street, behind Kandos Community Centre Hall 1.30pm. Bus leaves Ganguddy 3:30pm. Returns to Kandos via Birds Hut by approx. 5.15pm. Book the bus at cementa.com.au or at the C17 info booth.

ARTBANK REGIONAL INITIATIVE

Artbank is an Australian Government art leasing program for contemporary art, supporting visual artists and craftspeople across Australia. Artbank will be interviewing regional artists at Cementa17 with a view to Artbank representation and inclusion in the Artbank collection. Book an interview at artbank.gov.au/roadshow/.

ASSISTED RESIDENCY

Thom Roberts and Skye Saxon have been our first Assisted Residency participants. Extending the model established by our partner organisation, Studio A, the Assisted Residency program allows artists with disability to travel and sustain residency practices.

This program is made possible through the generous support of Studio A, and the Accessible Arts' Delineate grant as a part of the Don't DIS my ABILITY program.

CORRESPONDENCE OF IMAGINARY PLACES

Correspondence of Imaginary Places (CoIP) is an exchange of artworks. Seven Australian artworks will be installed in New York City and seven American artworks will be installed at Birds Hut during Cementa17. This is a special initiative curated by Alex Wisser, Sarah Breen Lovett, Scott Seaboldt, and Jill O’Brian.

CoIP artists: Connie Anthes – Kyle Ford; Zanny Begg – Anya Rosen; Jacqueline Drinkall – Artcodex (Glen Einbinder, Mike Estabrook and Vandana Jain); Alesha Lonsdale – Jason Lujan; Sarah Breen Lovett – Carol Warner; Julie Montgarrett and Sarah McEwan – Lauren Smith; Margaret Roberts – Melissa Staiger.

This project was made possible by the generous support of NAVA through the NSW Artists’ Grant.

THE DOME PROJECT

Cementa is developing new modes of artistic practice in full dome video format. Wiradjuri Murriyang by Wiradjuri artist Scott ‘Sauce’ Towney, is the first project. Cementa is grateful for the generous support of Arts OutWest; the University of Western Sydney’s Dr Ain De Horta and Andrew Leahy from the School of Computing Engineering and Maths, and consultant producer Kate Richards from the Experiential and Immersive Research Lab, Digital Humanities Research Group; Local Lands Services and the Big Skies Collaboration. Astronomer Trevor Leahman, University of NSW researcher on the Wiradjuri Cultural Astronomy Project, assisted with compositing and astronomical knowledge.

This work is funded by Local Land Services and The Regional Arts Fund, an Australian Government initiative that supports sustainable cultural development in regional, remote and very remote Australia.

FIRST DRAFT GALLERY: REGIONAL ARTISTS DEVELOPMENT INITIATIVE

Within the brief of promoting regional–urban exchange, Cementa is working with Sydney artist-run initiative First Draft to expand its artist development program into regional New South Wales. In addition to supporting an artist to participate in Cementa Contemporary Arts Festival, First Draft will be providing a residency and exhibition in Sydney. Cementa17’s Paris Norton, of Dubbo, is the first recipient.

GALLERY PARTNERS PROGRAM

The following organisations have generously contributed an artist fee to enable artists from their area to participate in Cementa17: Campbelltown Arts Centre, Parramatta Artist Studios, Bathurst Regional Art Gallery and Western Plains Cultural Centre.
KANDOS SCHOOL OF CULTURAL ADAPTATION

Inspired by Ian Milliss’s ambitious vision for Kandos (presented during Cementa13), Kandos School of Cultural Adaptation (KSCA) was founded on the idea that if art can be defined as cultural adaptation, then anyone practising cultural adaptation can be considered an artist. KSCA has embarked on several projects including Futurelands2 (November 2016) and The Hemp Initiative with Gilbert Grace and Stuart Andrews.

This project was made possible by the generous support of the Australia Council for the Arts.

TOURS

Cementa’s artist-led walking tours will be running each day of the festival, morning and afternoon. They cover the artworks in Kandos precincts 2 and 3 and include performances along the way. The tours take approximately 1½ hours and the walking pace is gentle.

Tours are maximum 20 people. Bookings: cementa.com.au or C17 info booth.

There are no formal tours of Kandos precinct 1 or of the other Cementa venues. All Cementa venues are open for self-guided exploration 10am to 4pm for all four days of the festival.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS
Cementa acknowledges the traditional custodians of this Country, the Wiradjuri People, and we pay our respects to elders both past and present.
Cementa is extraordinarily grateful for the generosity, enthusiasm and support of the people of Kandos and Ryldstone. We thank our hardworking team and willing volunteers who have contributed their expertise and sustained effort. Special thanks go to our sponsors and supporters, and to the individuals, businesses and groups who have provided venues, accommodation and equipment and have helped us prepare for and present Cementa17.

DISCLAIMER
Every effort has been made to ensure this information is accurate, but events and venues may change after the program has been printed. Please check cementa.com.au for updates.
